At the presenting the two first mentioned Bills, the Speaker of the House of Commons made the following Speech to the Lord Lieutenant.

May it please your Excellency,

THE Unanimity, Chearfulness, and Dispatch with which the Commons have raised the Supply for the Support of the Establishment, are a convincing Proof of that steady and inviolable Zeal which has influenced all their Proceedings for maintaining the Dignity of the Crown, and the Ease and Honour of your Administration.

The great Abilities and Integrity by which you have long distinguished yourself in Places of the highest Trust near his Majesty's Person, and the early Experience we had of your watchful Concern for the Welfare of this Kingdom, even before your happy Arrival amongst us, will always engage us to give you the strongest Proofs of our Esteem and Gratitude, and greatly adds to the Pleasure which I have in presenting these two Bills to you for the Royal Assent.

Amongst the many Instances of his Majesty's paternal Affection for his loyal Subjects of this Kingdom, we justly esteem it it one of the Principal, that he has ſent a Perſon of your approved Wiſdom and long Experience in Military Affairs to preſide over us, at a Conjuncture when the preſent Situation of Europe ſeems to require ſuch great Talents more immediately near the Throne.

Theſe Conſiderations inſpire Us with the warmeſt Senſe of Duty to his Majeſty, and Reſpect to your Excellency, which we have endeavoured to expreſs by the Confidence we have repoſed in you, in full Aſſurance, that from your known Goodneſs and Candour, you will favourably repreſent to his Majeſty our Proceedings, the juſt and natural Effects of thoſe unſhaken Principles of Loyalty always ſhewn by his faithful Commons for his ſacred Perſon and Government.
